Laugh, little children,
While you still have time,

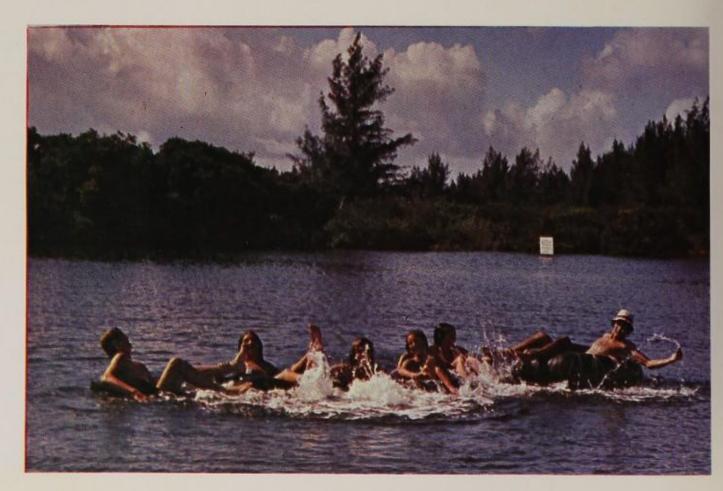

The big merry-go-round

Needs another dime.

Run, little children,

Through the night and day,

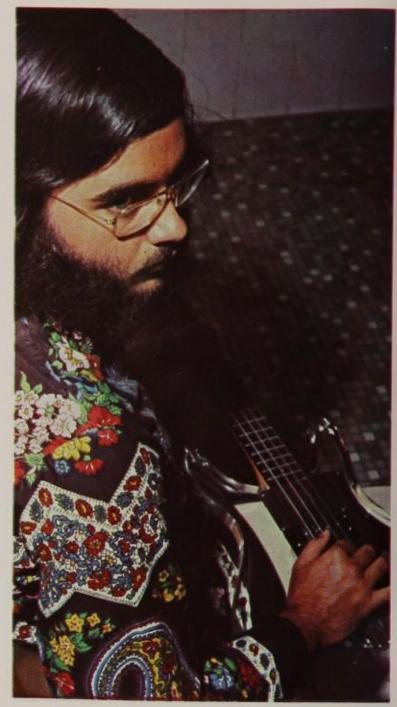

And pray that the sun

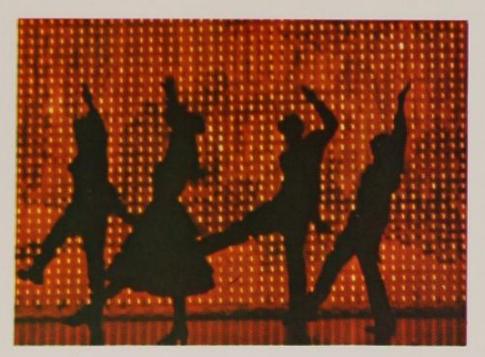

Won't soon fade away.

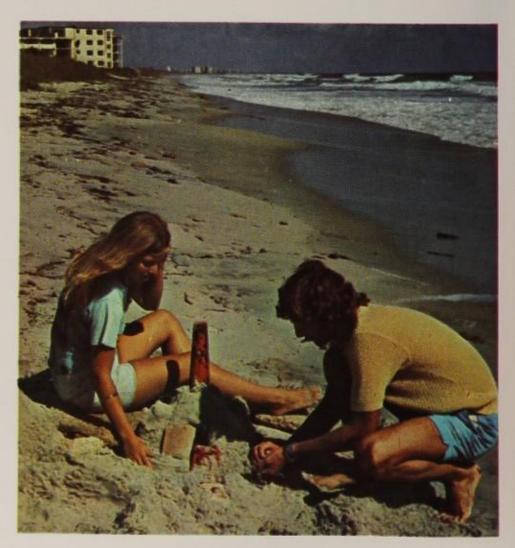

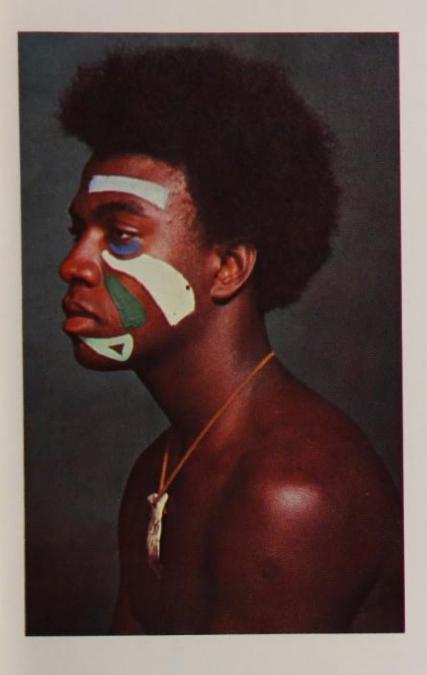

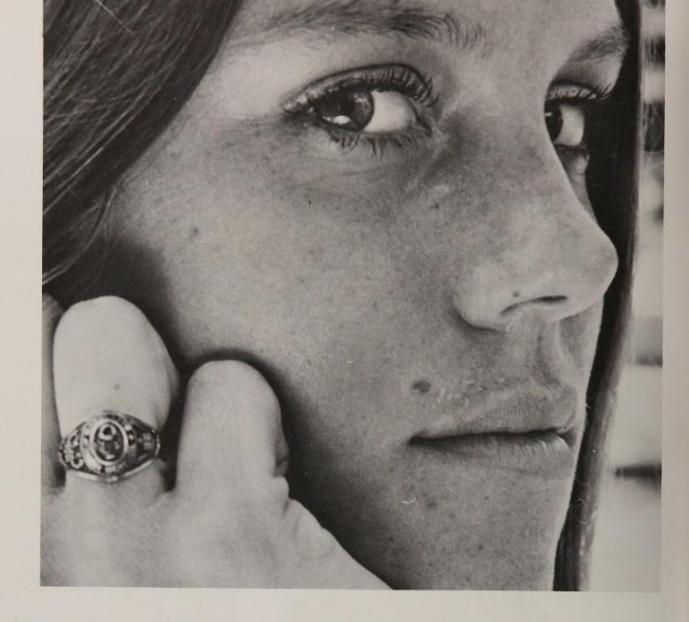

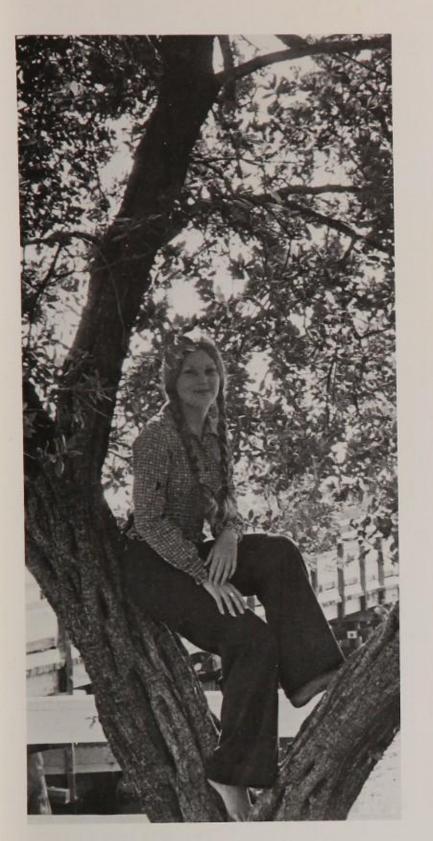

Laugh, little children,

If you can through your fears,

Even though you know

You will leave and shed tears.

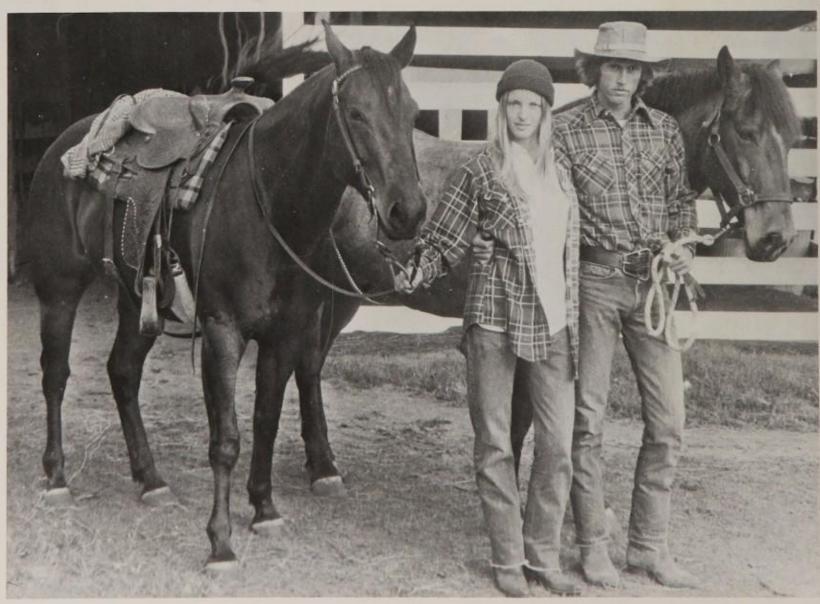

Run, little children

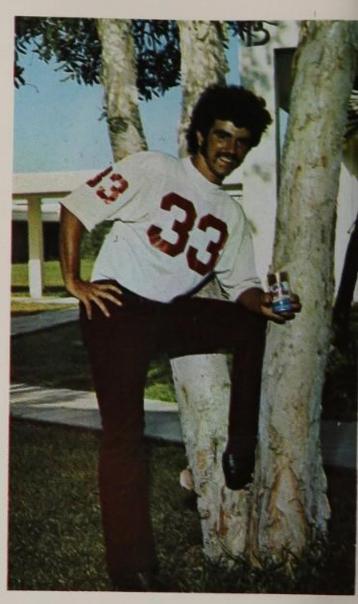

You were young, now you're old.

Where have you been?

It's time to come into the fold.

FACULTY

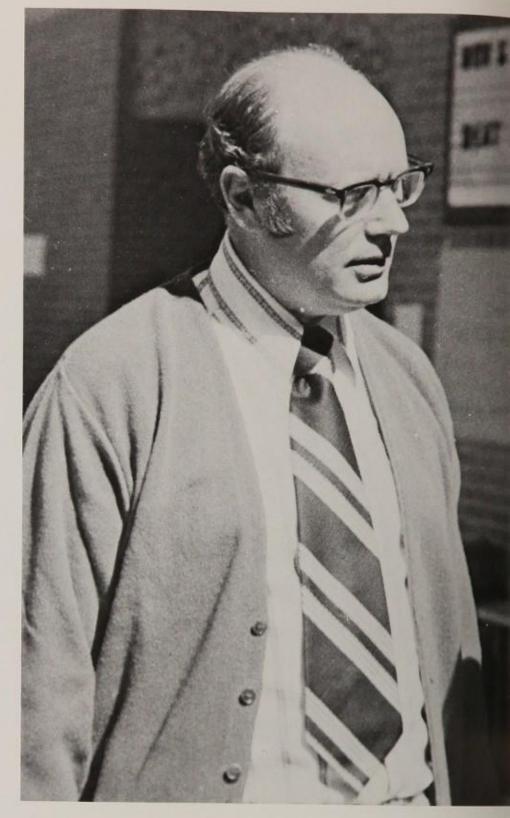

Principal

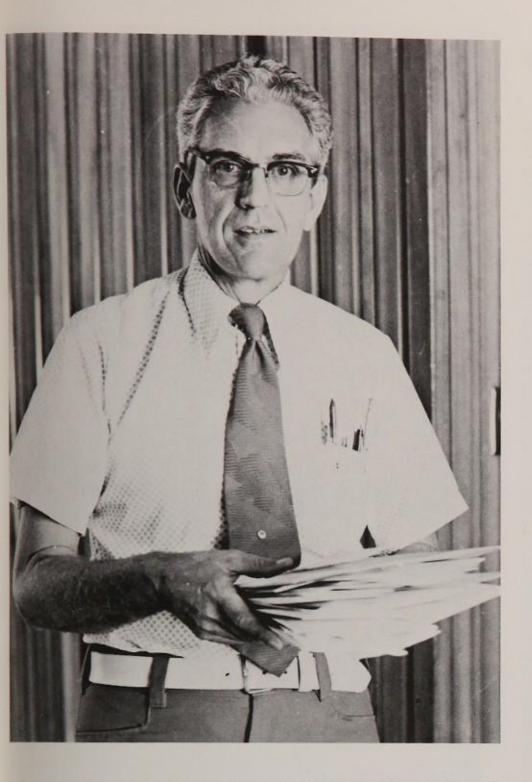

Satellite High has always been fortunate in receiving outstanding men as its chief administrator. Although in his first year at Satellite, Mr. Billy R. Davis has become deeply instilled with the proud traditions of the school. He is always willing to take time out from his many duties to lend a friendly ear to a student.

Mr. Billy R. Davis

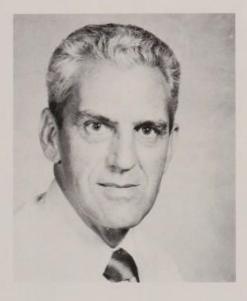

Assistant Principals

Mr. Walter Dixon and Mr. James Parker assist both teachers and students as they help coordinate school activities. Mr. Dixon, assistant principal for curriculum, works primarily with the teachers, while Mr. Parker deals mainly with student activities and the needs of the student.

Mr. Walter Dixon

Mr. James Parker

Deans

The Deans have one of the toughest jobs at Satellite. It takes a lot of hard work, security, and above all, understanding to make a good Dean. Mr. Harold Mann and Mrs. Gloria DiFabio have a deep interest in all students—their problems and their opinions.

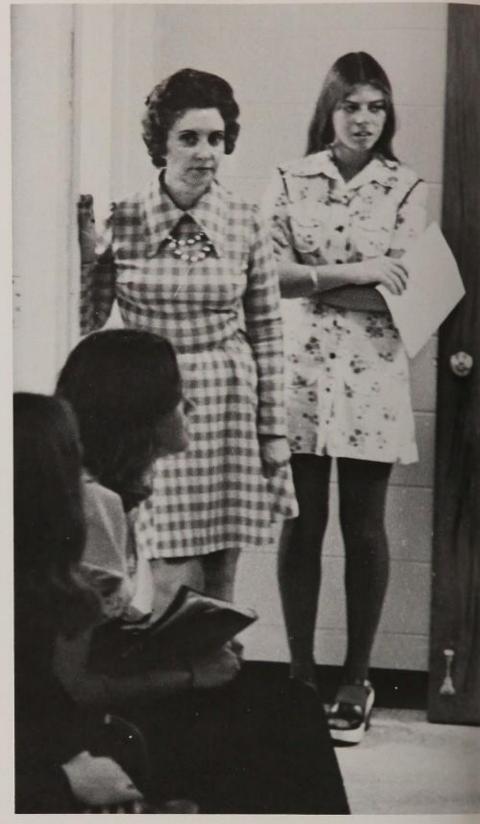

Mrs. DiFabio

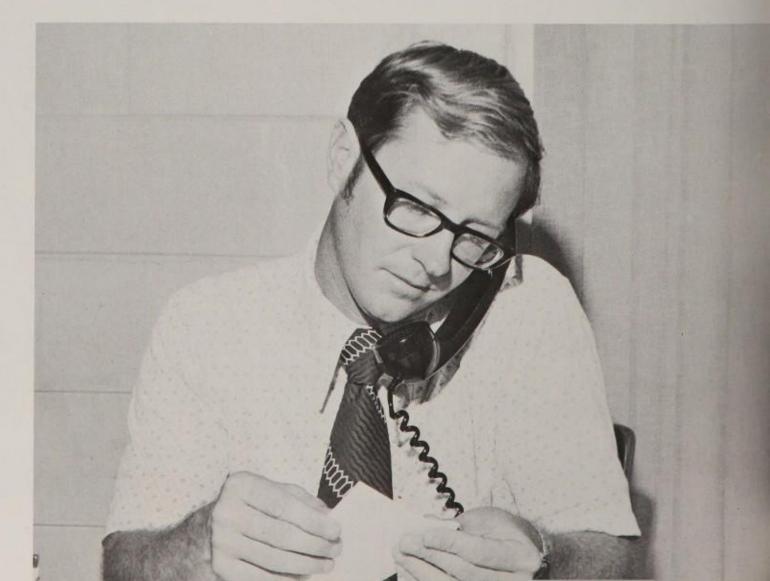

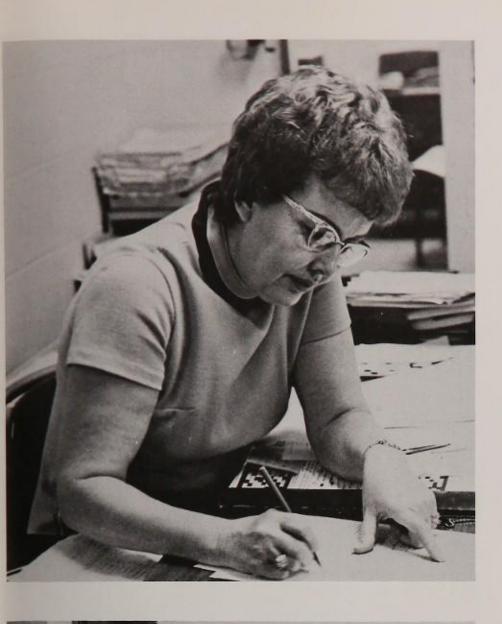

Office Staff

The office personnel courteously meets the demands of the faculty, administration, and students always with a willing smile throughout their daily routine.

Mrs. Barton

Mrs. Blankenship

Mrs. Kelly

Guidance Counselors

The quality of ready attention and sympathy, along with practical advice on scheduling and college plans, makes Satellite's guidance department one of the most valuable services offered to students.

Mrs. Barrish Mr. Coleman

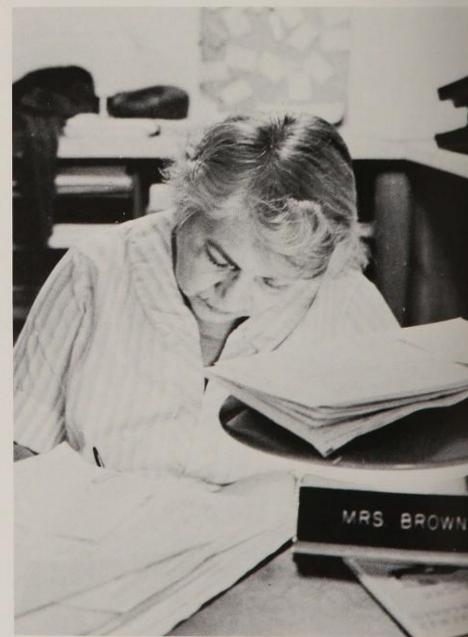

Mrs. Hunter
Mr. Maymard

Mrs. McMillian
Mr. Roberts

Clinic/Custodians

The clinic readily assists ill students and the custodians keep school grounds in an orderly condition.

Cafeteria Staff

The cafeteria staff cheerfully serves students tasty lunches daily.

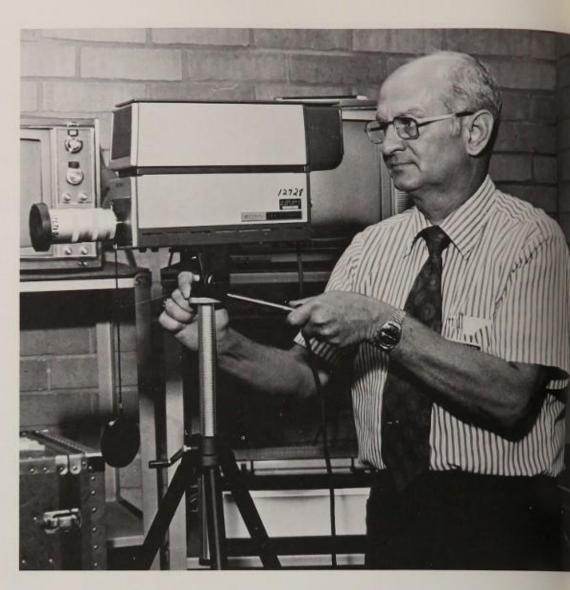

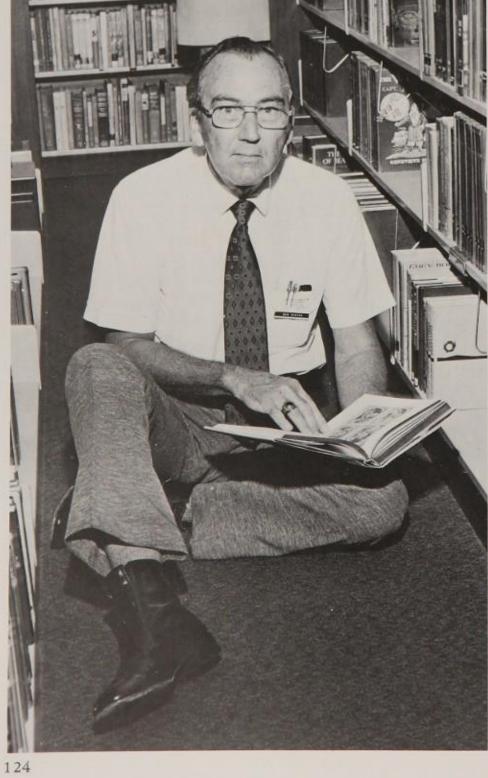

Research Center

Surrounded by a world of wisdom, students can exploit the research facilities, consult the reference section or simply enjoy the fiction shelves and magazines-all in silence.

Occupational Training Program

Mr. Pitt teaches students practical training today to use tomorrow.

Mr. Pitt

The little things
Are most worthwhile—
A quiet word;
A look, a smile,
A listening ear
That's quick to share
Another's thoughts,
Another's care . . .
Though sometimes
They may seem
Quite small,
These Little things
Mean most of all.

Footprints in the Sand

She sat alone in the darkness, hiding from the storm The wind blew hard across the beach, the air was heavy and warm. When I saw her I knew I had known her, Someplace long, long ago. As I neared, she turned her head away, it appeared she didn't know. Then I saw the silver glint, of metal in the night. She shuddered as the needle pierced her skin, her face, a sickening white. I walked to her past the lonely pier, and looked into her eyes. She looked at me from another world, she just didn't realize.

I was the one who started it, so very long ago. We got stoned together at a party, in my home.

Silently I watched as she turned, and slowly walked away.

I saw the trail her footsteps left, and began to die that day.

For they could lead to nowhere, Yet I had shown the way.

The pier loomed high above, casting shadows on the beach.
Gulls floated softly in the light of a moon just barely out of reach.
The killer twice walked slowly,
With Mother Nature glowing in his hand.
The shining ocean swiftly washed away,
their footprints from the sand.

Joe Cocchiarella

And now you're gone, as though you were never here, and my loneliness' shadow now appears. i shall wait till you are yet gone, and then cry over some silly song, and turn i will, as my memories last, to close the door of my jar of glass.

Into my life of ridiculous order enters you, refreshing confusion! You are to me, a loving child, a hidden lover. You are seldom timid, seldom shy, and yet the peacefulness of your mind shines through. Transform me into your world of color and brightness and let me take care of you.

Beverly Archebell

Seems like everyone is too possessed in their own minds, They never care about me or the endless time. My time is done and what does it show? I have so much to learn and so little I know. My world is so small, but yet it's all mine, My thoughts are so mellow and seem so entwined. Forever shall I see and always shall I laugh At the unseeming people behind their fake masks.

DEEP IN DECEMBER

The sky was blacker than black,
An unequalled pearlescence.
A million stars screaming their brilliance
On a flawless black velvet tapestry.

The wood, a mass of stoic sleuths,
Softly entreating us to stay.
Silently refusing—we couldn't stray
From our appointment with the lake.

We found, while quietly walking, The fisherman's tiny docking, Surely meant purely for us This evening. Who else?

The wind, grown suddenly firmer,
Danced merrily on the water.
The frosty December breeze
Playing tag with the liquid soon to freeze.

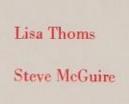

In each others arms we sat,
Warmly in our blanket wrapped,
Falsely longing for the return
Of he who never was.

Exchanging light-hearted jests, Laughing, singing, teasing. Whispering shielded secrets, Having, holding, wanting.

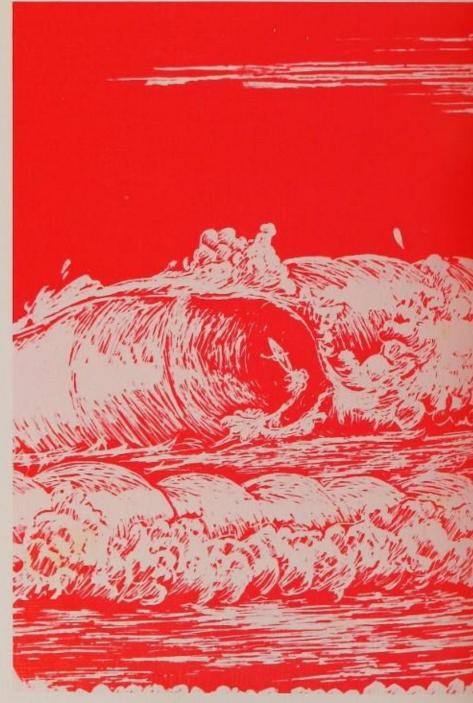

Sharing warm, buttery kisses,
Silent gazes, deepest wishes.
Serenly dozing, head on shoulder,
Alone together, love forever,

With white crowns atop our heads,
We rose with the fresh morning light
To greet the radiant white sight
To commune with the newborn day.

Tom Cairns

I had a love and it was true
Until the day I knew we were through,
I loved him more than anything
Because tears of joy were what he'd bring.
I miss him so very, very much especially that warm and gentle touch.
Someday I hope I'll find
Another one who was just as kind.

BY CHANCE

As I walked one day along the shore I happened, by chance, to meet you. And as I turned my head to see I stared into your eyes of blue And there I stood, entranced by them, Standing still, ghostly still Hoping, by chance, for a command, Wishing to do your will. Then, as my senses Once more became my own, I looked at the beach 'round me, And discovered I was alone.

The only sounds disturbing the silence of the night
are those of children playing in the distance,
And the chirps of the birds singing their endless, cheerful song.

to relish the peacefulness of God's creation . . .
and sit in awe . . .
and wonderment . . .

PAST-PRESENT-FUTURE

The past is a flower,
Withered and dead
The present is harsh
One tries to get ahead.
But the future, Ah! the future!

You may sit and wonder and never decide
Where all your pasts and presents flew!

the bird died! it drank this water. it fished in this water. it swam in this water. it had children near this water. it did nothing to this water to make them not friends. but the water made it die. or was it the water? or was it the oil? or was it the factory? or was it the trash? or was it the boat? or was it the sewers? or was it not truly Man?

give me time to sing to the tunes of your precious birds, time to catch a glimpse of a robin just hatching from its egg. time to witness a flower opening at dawn.

give me time to walk among endless cornfields and feel the fresh air soothe the interior of my bones. i want so much to be among what you have created.

give me time to slash into your vast oceans, to swim in the coldest lake, to watch tadpoles swim in a quiet pond. time to catch a frog, or climb a tree in search of a squirrel.

give me time to hear a grasshopper's music in the early morning, time to watch the rising of the sun or the setting of a rough day. time to wander through a forest, not knowing where it begins or ends.

give me time, father, to do the things that i would to do, now what everyone else expects of me, but time to feel the immense beauty you have given us all.

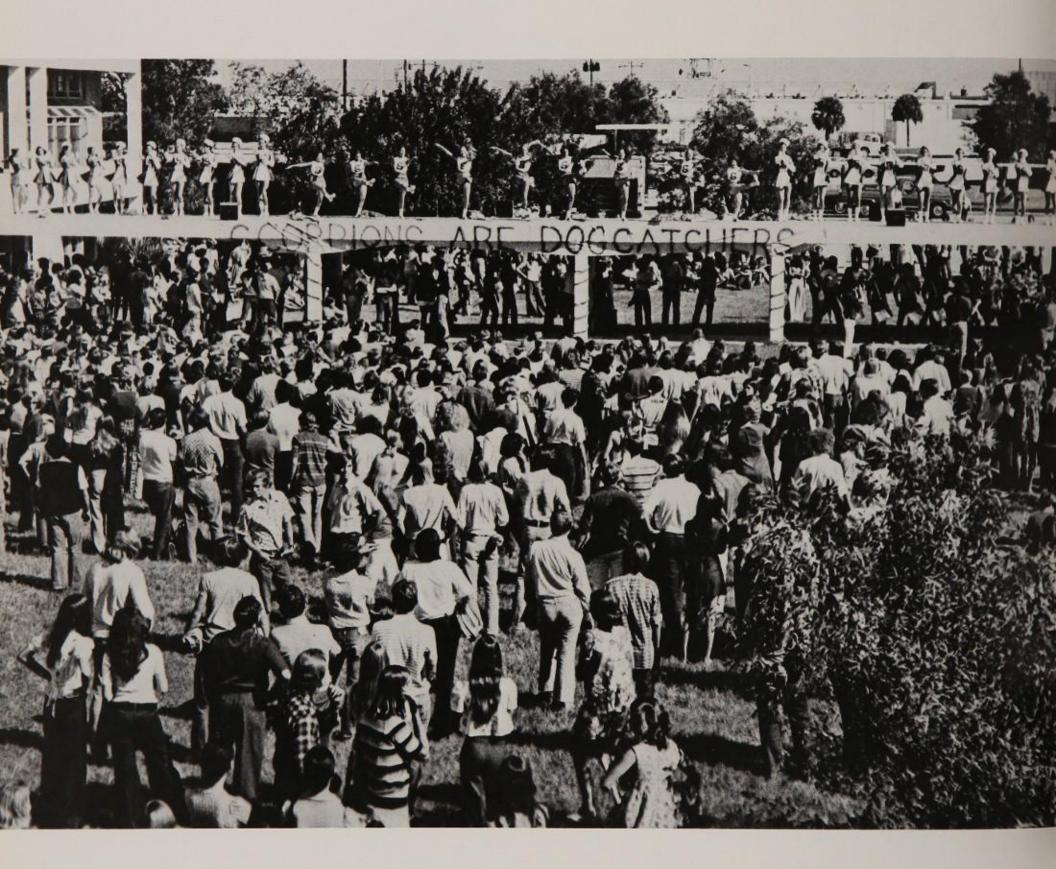

time to stop everything, and learn through experience what the world around me is really like. give me time—oh, give me time, father, to be with you alone.

Exchange Students

The International Cultural Exchange . . . located in Ann Arbor, Michigan . . . exchange students . . . new friendships.

Gustavo San Roman comes from Montevideo, Uruguay, the smallest country in South America. He will be here for six months as an exchange student.

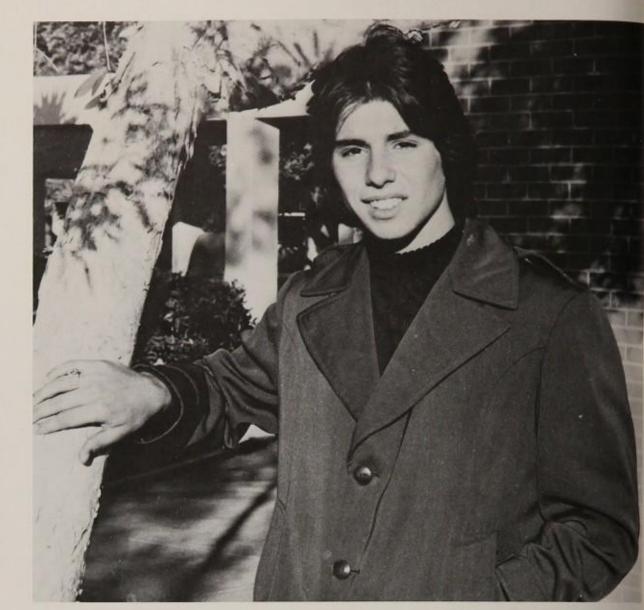

One of his goals while in America, is to become familiar with our way of life, our culture and customs. He hopes that, through himself, we can learn of his country. Of the educational system here, Gus feels that school is easy, and he admires the material aides used in teaching a subject.

Another exchange student is Maria Cevallos. She comes from Quito, Ecuador, where she was born eighteen years ago. This is her first year of studying English. Later, she would like to go to college to further her language studies.

Maria has found America to be interesting and exciting. She enjoys traveling; unlike in South America where out of country visits are rare.

From Oslo, Norway comes Ivar Johansen. Because of his interest in the Space Program, he applied to stay in Florida, where he will live for a year.

Heart Throb Hop

Love and kisses flew through the air...pretty girls and handsome guys...Valentines Day.

For the first time in years, SHS had an informal Heart Throb Hop. Sponsored by the Choraliers, the dance was a huge success. The festive time was highlighted by the crowning of Queen Jenni Marter and King Kevin Van Schaick.

The Spurrlows

Gotta' get out of class...Oh wow! there's an assembly today...sponsored by the National Honor Society... the contemporary rock group the Spurrlows...great music...rock 'n roll... soul.

The Spurrlows played for two captive assembly audiences. The smooth, mellow voice of Randy Moore singing "Make it With You" by Bread, the strong brass sound of "American Band" by Grand Funk Railroad, and the nostalgic delight of such hits as "Kansas City," and "Blue Suede Shoes" echoed through the halls.

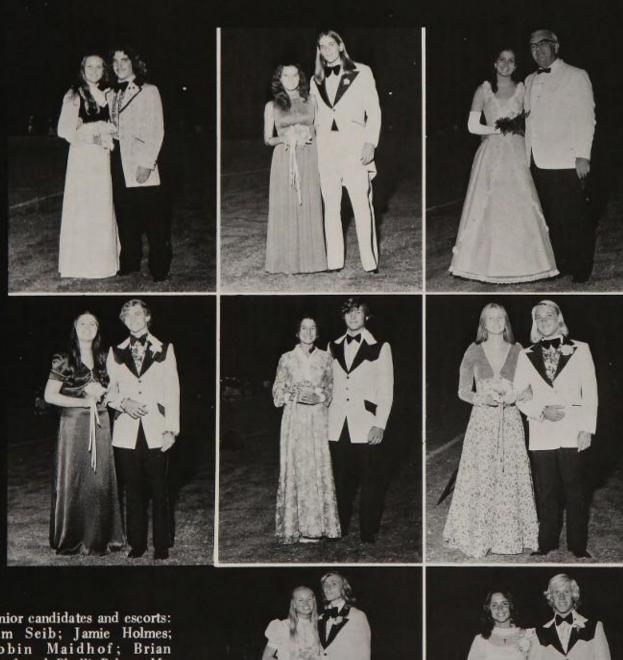

An added feature of the assembly was the dance contest. The winning form of Coach Carney, and later Mr. Feu, met the approval of students and faculty, while the others watched in disbelief.

Scarlettes

A proud new addition to the Marching Scorps this year are the Scarlettes. The four girls march on the field at half-time with the band carrying their scarlet and white flags. Their sharp precise drills add to the glamour and entertainment of a half-time show.

Symphonic Band

From its gay marches to its classical overtures, the Symphonic Band has always given entertaining performances. Besides the regularly scheduled performances at the school, it also performs at several contests during the year where they always bring back high honors.

Stage Band

With its variety of jazz and pop selections, the Stage Band adds a nice variation to the music department. The Stage Band plays selections that range from the Swing Era to today's Modern Pop and Soul Music which brings enjoyment to listeners of all ages.

Young,

This year the TEL-STAR staff is indeed fortunate to have with them the East Central District No. 3 Representative to the Florida Scholastic Press Association, Lori Camberg. She represents ten counties on the east coast at the Executive Board meetings, and also helps in planning the Fall Workshop and State Convention.

An experienced and talented man, Mr. Schaap was appointed Vice President at the Fall Executive Board meeting that was held in Daytona Beach early in the school year. His old position of District Advisor will be filled at a later date. Congratulations, Mr. Schaap!

SCORPIO

The work on the Satellite High School annual, SCORPIO, is done by an organized annual staff. Much work goes into Satellite's yearbook and much talent is expended. Those on the annual staff work many nights . . . nights of groans, grins, sighs, songs, parties, coffee, and laughter. Through all of the work however, there comes the satisfaction of knowing the job has been done well.

This year the SCORPIO staff consists of many Seniors who have had three or more years of journalism experience. Among them is Suzi Grbinich, who is the State Secretary for Florida Scholastic Press Association. Her duties include keeping the minutes for all state meetings, and working with the Executive Secretary regarding other business.

A YEAR OF HOPES

AND SORROWS . . .

Coach Wayne Shelton, after building a football dynasty at Interlachen High School, came to the Space Coast in hopes of continuing his winning ways.

Even before accepting the head coach position for the Scorp gridders, Coach

Shelton knew that the road ahead would be a tough one to pave.

The young, inexperienced Scorps realized they had their work cut out for them, playing one of the toughest schedules in the state. Although the work and desire to win was there, the breaks never seemed to fall their way.

Their record may not show it, but throughout the season the Scorpions gained the experience and knowledge a winning team needs to excell.

losing season.

J. V. Football

The 1974 J. V. Football team, under the stern leadership of head coach Pat O'Brian, added the only winning note to an otherwise losing football season. The strong line of sophomores accumulated the best J. V. Football record to come along in the past few years.

A Season of Disappointment

The 1974 Scorpion cagers started off the year with two big upsets over Cocoa High and Merritt Island. From that point on though, the season was mostly a disappointment.

Injuries and rebounding hurt the Scorps from the beginning, but there was one thing evident on this year's team that was different in past years—they gave their utmost to have a winning season. Not once this year would the Scorp cagers fail to give a full 100%.

Although they ended up with a losing record the Scorpions have at least acquired the will to win. Next season this spirit plus an outstanding crop of junior varsity players will make Satellite a winner.

The Year of a Winner

The 1974 grapplers started their season and ended it the same way—winning. Wrestling head coach Ken Lunderman continued a long record of winning seasons with the help of top wrestlers Jay Wisdom, Steve Anderson, Fred Collier and Mark Revers.

To Coach Lunderman and his winning team, the Scorpio sports staff sincerely says CONGRATULATIONS!

Baseball

The 1974 Satellite Scorpion baseball team used a tremendous combination of power, speed and pitching to become the most outstanding baseball team the Space Coast has seen in years. The pitching was supplied mostly by southpaw hurler Eric Hiller, as he led the Space Coast pitchers in every category imaginable. Mike Grammer teamed with Hiller to give Satellite the best 1-2 punch in the county.

Satellite was loaded with talent but they could not have won the CCC Championship if it had not been for the wit and wisdom of their outstanding coach, Les Hall.

1974 proved to be a landmark to remember for the Satellite Track Team, as they came up with their best season ever.

This complete turnaround could not have been possible if it weren't for the patience and hard work of coaches Ken Pitt and Joe Horschel.

Success has finally come to the Satellite trackmen, and with many outstanding returning sophomores and juniors success should stay here at Satellite for quite a few years.

Laugh, little children,
While you still have time.
The big merry-go-round
Needs another dime.

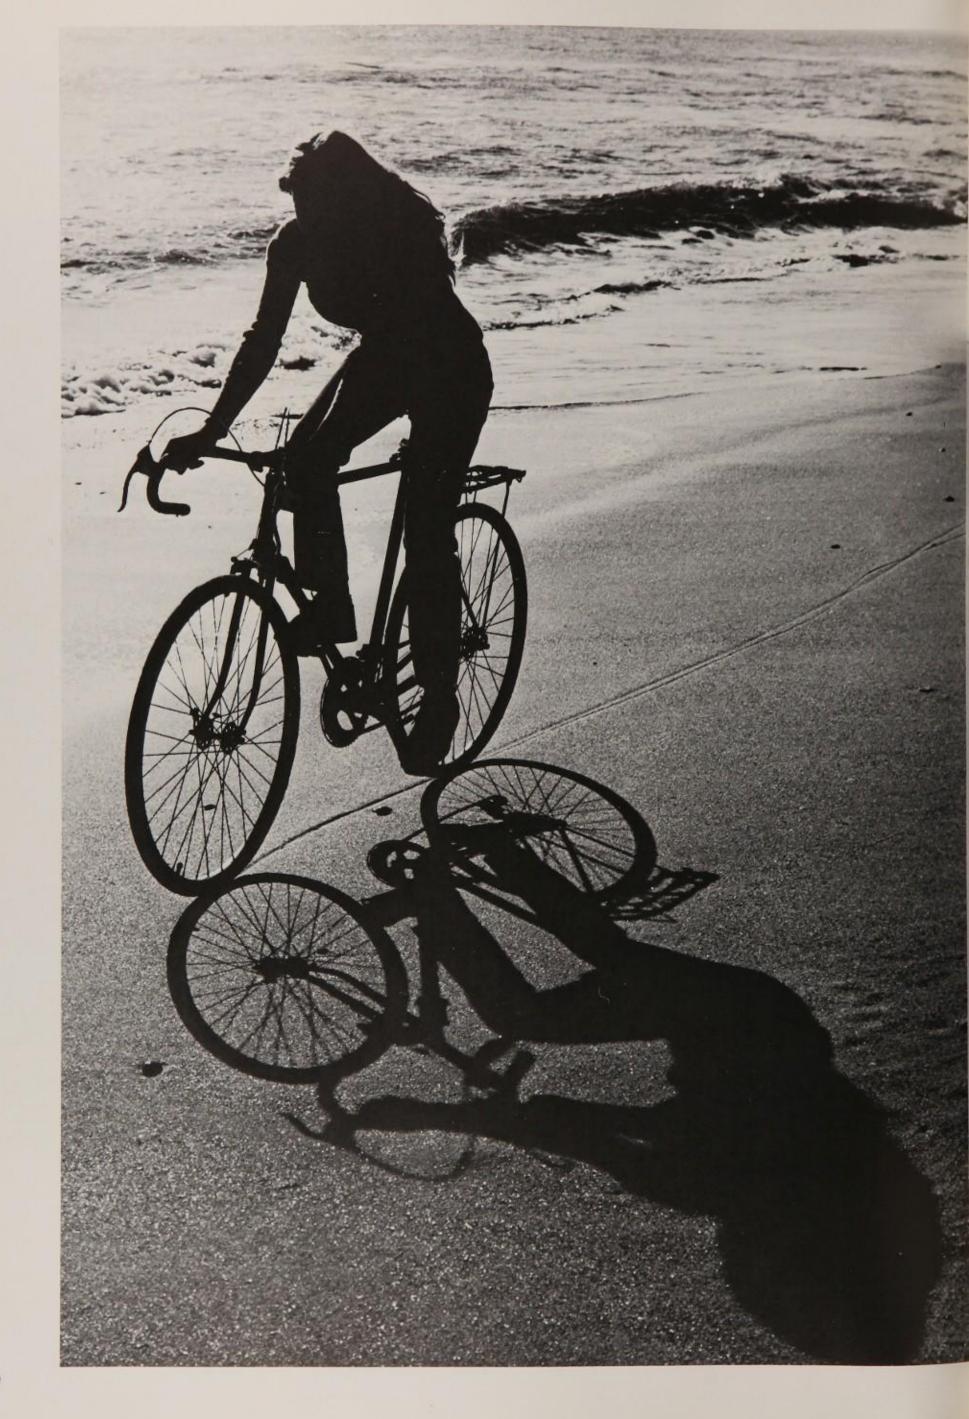

Run, little children,
Through the night and day,
And pray that the sun
Won't soon fade away.

Laugh, little children,
If you can through your fears,
Even though you know
You will leave and shed tears.

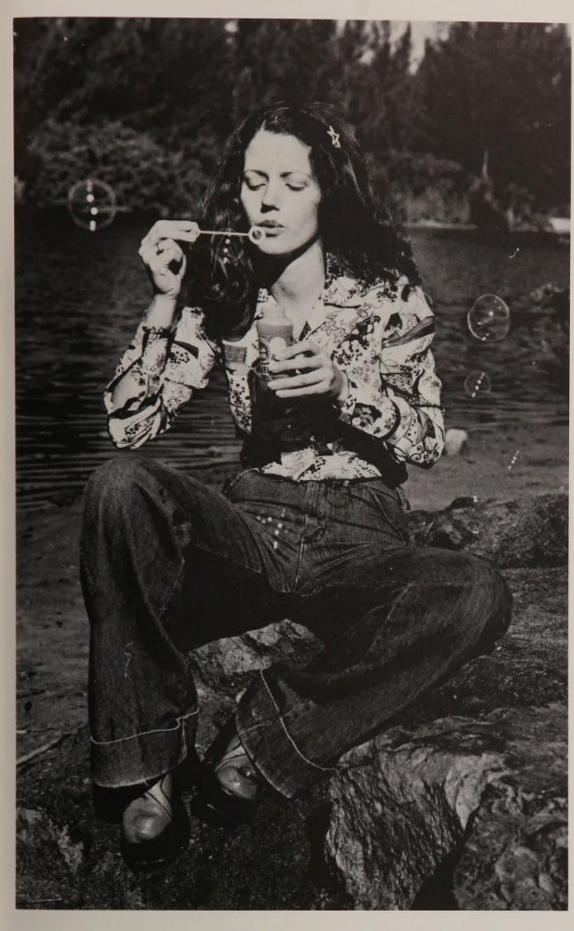

Run, little children,
You were young, now you're old,
Where have you been?
It's time to come in to the fold.

The deepest feeling always shows itself in silence.

I can't believe that it is really over: the thousands of hours of hard work, the countless problems that plagued the staff, the untimely loss of our friends, the good times we shared. Now, only one week before we go to press for the final deadline, they all seem to have happened so long ago. That is the purpose of a yearbook; to capture the present in pictures, to save for the future, to be able to relive the past. My hope for SCORPIO '74 is that it will somehow help you to enjoy this year in memories.

Few people realize that ours is a professional yearbook produced by a rather less than professional staff. If only those twentyodd people, my staff, could know the admiration I have for them. They accepted the responsibility of assembling a literary work, and met the challenge well.

The man who kept all of us together when times were rough, tried so hard to keep the room neat and organized, and who had all of us laughing especially when I felt like crying, is Mr. Gary Mauck, our advisor. He is a most valuable person and a wonderful friend.

As the third year of my somewhat crazy dedication to SCORPIO comes abruptly to an end, I have to say, "It feels kinda good to be a has-been. And it only seems fair that I have
